“Yeşim enriches the content with real life examples as well as her own past experiences so that the participants can capture not only the concepts but also what and when they should do in a given situation. Her calm attitude and fascinating facilitation affects participants in a way that they give themselves up to her until the end of the workshop. Participants are also eager both to use and share what they learned with their colleagues and direct reports in real life. We are so happy to be working with Yeşim”

“Yeşim is very successful in delivering her expertise, understanding the audience and using appropriate communication skills in accordance with the needs of the audience. The training evaluations from each and every training reveals how well she encourages participants to participate, how good her presentation skills to keep participants attention on the subject and how effective she is in delivering the content to the audience.

As the HR team, we had very efficient and productive conversations with her on every issue that we want to consult with before and after the trainings. Her powerful observations increase the effectiveness of training evaluation and development plan processes.”

“SLII presents a solid and effective leadership model with its unique psychological background and practical practices. Every leader should definitely care about and use the SLII skills with her/his direct reports and ask for the appropriate leadership behaviors in addressing her/his needs. The SLII has become a phenomenon in our company but I believe the main reason for that -besides the content- was Yeşim's energy, competency and most importantly her way of embracing the SLII herself. We monitored the delivery of this outstanding workshop with joy and discipline and saw how good the skills were applied back on the job.”
